

Directions to the University of Kansas Field Station

- 1 Native Medicinal Plant Research Garden and KU Student Farm (parking, public garden)
- 2 Fitch Natural History Reservation (trails)
- 3 Suzanne Ecke McColl Nature Reserve and Stan and Janet Roth Trailhead (parking, trails)
- 4 Rockefeller Prairie Trailhead (ADA-compliant); trail to Rockefeller Native Prairie and Kaw River Valley Overlook (parking, trails)
- 5 Entrance to Field Station research and operations area and Armitage Education Center (events only)

The KU Field Station is dedicated to field-based research on plants, animals, soils, water and the atmosphere. It also provides a rich arena for teaching. The garden and the nature trails allow limited public access for learning about the natural environment.

Directions: From US 59/24 and US 24/40 north of Lawrence, travel 1.5 miles east on 24/40 (past the Lawrence airport) to E 1600 Road and turn left (north). Following green road signs with directions to the Field Station, continue 4 miles north to the Research and Operations Center entrance. Pass through the open gate; the Armitage Center is about ¼ miles from the entrance.
